OUR POLICY

To support such measures as are unquestionably for the good of Mason County as an entire community, rather than such propositions as are in favor of the individual interest, or of one section as against another. And likewise to earnestly and consistently oppose all things that are not for the good of the County as a whole.

BARNYARD MANURE IS VERY VAL-

The value of barnyard manure and the best means of taking care of it and applying it are given too little attention by Kentucky farmers and the waste that results, on the average farm, would appall the owner if he knew how great the waste is.

Dr. Charles E. Thorne, Director of the Ohio Experiment Station, has been invited to come to Kentucky to tell our people the results of his twenty-five years of experimental work with manures and other fertilizers. Dr. Thorne probably knows more about farm manures, their value and proper uses, than any other man in the United States. His lectures will be one of the features of the Farmers' Week exercises at the University of Kentucky January 28th to 31st.

Blind British soldiers and sailors who had learned to row at Saint Dunstan's Hotel, took part in a series of races at the Marlow Rowing Club—steered by the sisters of St. Dunstan's. There were 21 single scull entries.

Boy Scout troops have been organized through the Red Cross in the Holy Land.

Will Fifth Loan Be Easier To Put Over

Will the Fifth Liberty Loan, which is to be floated in April, be harder to raise than its predecessors?

Students of finance hold varying views on this question, but the optimists cite the rather convincing argument that France made her greatest record at bond buying in after-the-war financing. Germany at the end of the Franco-Prussian war levied an indemnity of $1,000,000,000 on France May 10, 1871. The French people were allowed until March 2, 1874, to pay it. But by the summer of 1873 the last cent had been paid Germany, the billion and interest having been raised by the French in two smashing bond-selling drives.

And France was a vanquished nation then.

The United States, having had only a year of war and none of that on its own soil, emerges victor from this war with Germany, cite those who believe the Fifth Loan should be easily subscribed, and certainly cannot do less than France.

VISITS HEADQUARTERS OF JOFFRE AT BATTLE OF MARNE

Maysville Officer Explains Some of His Experiences in Letter to Mother.

Mrs. Alice Best, of East Second street, is just in receipt of the following interesting letter from her son, Lieutenant Doniphan Best, now in France:

Sunday, Nov. 20, 1918.

Dear Mother:

The uncertainty of army life has been well exemplified for only last Sunday I wrote you that my orders had been again cancelled and that I expected to remain in Gievres the rest of the war. Then on Monday, much to my surprise, as well as to my superiors there, I received an order from general headquarters at Tails to proceed at once to Claye-Sanilly. No one knew what was here, what I was coming to do, and even in Paris I had considerable difficulty finding out where the place was. This I learned later was due largely to the French custom of having a town of one name and a railway station of another, several kilometers apart, but the same places as far as travelers are concerned.

I left Gievres at noon Tuesday, took a narrow gauge line to a junction called Salbris, and after waiting there two hours caught a local on the main line which took me as far as the junction at Orleans. There I caught the Paris express, which was very crowded, and I had to stand in the vestibule all the way to Paris, where I arrived about 9 o'clock. This train was the first high-class French train that I had ridden on, and it compared very favorably with American trains, except for seating capacity—the cars are all divided into compartments for eight people each, with doors into a passageway which runs down one side, usually it seems that about four persons with their baggage get into each compartment and the rest of the passengers stand or sit on baggage in the passage.

That is, those who are not running back and forth with that mania for constant movement which strikes me as another characteristic of the French. It is especially noticeable in the large waiting rooms of stations, where there are no seats to speak of—everyone just walks around and the result is a large jumble. This Paris express was filled largely with officers, and quite a sparkling appearance, as the French were mostly in dress uniform. Ashes of red and blue, gold braid and decorations—all of them wear decorations of some sort, and most of them have wound stripes.

As it was raining hard and very dark I went to a hotel near the station with a captain with whom I was traveling. Early in the morning we went back to the station to look for our baggage which just sort of drifts along and due to the fact that it didn't show up till the next afternoon I had two days in Paris during which I saw quite a bit of the city, though it rained continuously. I went to the Hotel Richmond near the opera, it being a Y. M. C. A. Hotel for officers only and had very good accommodations there, including excellent meals. Paris is certainly full of American soldiers as well as French, British, Canadian and Australian.

Americans seem to predominate most of them being from the front.

Among the things of interest that I saw were the government buildings, the Place de Le Concorde and the gardens of Tuilerie of course Notre Dame Cathedral, the Church of Madeleine, St. Chappelle, the Opera, Eiffel Tower, the Arc de Triomphe, "Rue du President Wilson" and Washington Statue, together with many other interesting points of less importance. I believe the thing that was of the greatest interest to me was the collection of captured war material in the Place de Concorde, and around the decorated monuments of Lille, Strassburg, Metz, etc., hundreds of guns of all kinds, field guns, mortars, machine guns, trench mortars, anti-aircraft guns, also many aeroplanes, observation balloons and Zeppelins. It surely is a grim exhibition.

Yesterday I had the honor of taking part in the ceremony of presentation of the Cross of the Legion of Honor to a French Colonel and it was very impressive. Afterwards I was in the small chateau which will become a sacred spot in France on account of having been the headquarters of General Joffre at the first battle of the Marne and from which he issued his famous "They Shall Not Pass" order. Everything has been left in the room just as he went out of it. This town was entered by German patrols but they did not return, most of them now being out along the road under the sod.

This is a veterinary hospital for 2,000 sick and wounded horses and I am supervising the construction of roads and 23 stables. I wouldn't describe it so much except that the Germans know all about it having bombarded it several times east about two weeks ago but they won't again. It is on the direct Paris air route and one of the main defenses. We are quartered in very comfortable permanent building taken over from the French.

Well tomorrow is the day for decision on the armistice and today old Bill has abdicated—so no telling what will have happened by the time you receive this. Anyway Germany is licked, that's obvious.

With lots of love,

DON.

CALLED HER FAMILY TO HER BEDSIDE

Six Years Ago, Thinking She Might Die, Says Texas Lady, But Now She Is a Well, Strong Woman and Praises Cardui For Her Recovery.

Royse City, Tex.—Mrs. Mary Killman, of this place, says: "After the birth of my little girl...my side commenced to hurt me. I had to go back to bed. We called the doctor. He treated me...but I got no better. I got worse and worse until the misery was unbearable...I was in bed for three months and suffered such agony that I was just drawn up in a knot... I told my husband if he would get me a bottle of Cardui I would try it... I commenced taking it, however, that evening I called my family about me... for I knew I could not last many days unless I had a change for the better. That was six years ago and I am still here and am a well, strong woman, and I owe my life to Cardui. I had only taken half the bottle when I began to feel better. The misery in my side got less... I continued right on taking the Cardui until I had taken three bottles and I did not need any more for I was well and never felt better in my life... I have never had any trouble from that day to this."

Do you suffer from headache, back ache, pains in sides, or other discomforts, each month? Or do you feel weak, nervous and fagged-out? If so, give Cardui, the woman's tonic, a trial.

FIRST EXPERIENCE "OVER THE TOP" IS FULLY EXPLAINED

Former Maysville Man Tells of His Experiences "Over the Top" in Interesting Letter.

The following is copied from the Russell (Ky.) Times and was written by W. Burgess Burns, son of Mr. and Mrs. John Burns, former residents of Mr. M. T. McClanahan and has been in France for about eight months: Co. C, 301st Batt., American Tank Corp. with B. E. F., in France. October 14, 1918.

Dear Sister: Will try to write you a few lines now. Would have written sooner but have been awfully busy the last two weeks. I have not had a letter from you or mother for a month, but this is a pretty much out-of-the-way place and none of the fellows have received much mail.

Well, how are all the folks getting along? All well, I hope. I am feeling all o. k. with the exception of a good bath. This is the worst country I have ever seen for water. Can't hardly get it at all, and it is raining about two-thirds of the time. How is everybody in Russell? That is, what is left? What do you think of the war? It is the largest I was ever in (?), believe me. But I do not think it will last much longer. We do not hear very much about it, only the sector in which we are sure have them on the go. Believe me, if they keep on going all along the line like they are moving here they will all be in Berlin or some other seaport long before Christmas. We can not keep up with them. I was talking to some German prisoners yesterday and they did not think that it will last very much longer.

Well, our outfit went into action about two weeks ago. Heavy Tankers, and it was some hot time, too, believe me. We went over the top about daylight. We hadn't got fifty yards from our kicking off place when they opened up on us. Gee whiz, talk about shooting! The bullets hitting on that tank sounded like rain on a tin roof. But when we opened up on them with the six-pounder and the machine guns they began to scatter in all directions, and the Yanks infantry came over behind the tank and got what was left. It has rabbit hunting skinned a block, believe me. We were going some until we ran into a mine which put our tank out of action. Then is when the fun began. You see when a tank gets knocked out the crew has to leave on account of the artillery fire. If a shell hits the tank the whole crew is likely to get knocked out. So we were for a shell hole. That is when the snipers get busy. Have you heard that song, "Keep Your Head Down, Fritz Boy"? Well, that is when we have to keep our mugs down, and it is not the least trouble to keep your head down; it comes natural. Ha, ha!

Well, I do not know how many Huns I killed, but I did capture one. You see we had to stay in this shell hole until dark before we could get out, and, believe me, it sure was dark and rainy. We were crawling from one shell hole to another, and you know it is somewhat muddy. We were laying close to the ground for we did not mind the mud a bit at that particular time, and every time Fritz sent up a star shell we would flop right into the mud. There wasn't a one of us that thought of looking for a grassy or dry spot.

Well, as we got pretty nearly out of range of snipers we ran onto a couple of wounded Tommies. Tommies are British soldiers; they call the Yanks Sammies. Well, we sure had a time trying to carry those Tommies, and couldn't take a couple of steps without falling into a shell hole, for the ground sure was shot up some. Well, as we were within 25 yards of our front line trenches, I got into a barbed wire entanglement, and by the time I got out most of the crew had got to the trenches, all except Pud Wilson, who was still behind me. I came plowing up through the mud, and all of a sudden I bumped into someone. I thought at the time it was one of the crew, until he began to mutter something in German. Gee whiz! That was the worst moment I ever put in. I began to think we were right into a German trench, but when I got hold of the business end of a 45 automatic I had I felt better.

About that time Pud Wilson came up. I rammed that gun right into him. I could not reach his head, he was so tall. Gee, but he was a whopper! Pud said, "who is he?" When I said "a Hun" old Pud caught his breath, and I guess his hair began to raise, as mine was straight up, as far as the helmet I wore would permit it to. I do not know which was the most afraid, us or the German. He began to mutter in broken English something about his leg being hurt, and not to shoot him, so we took him in and all the rest of the Yanks wanted to know where we got him. We did not tell them he was standing right out on top of the trench getting ready to give himself up. But anyhow old Jerry came in pretty handy, as one of the crew was wounded and getting weak. It turned out that his leg was not hurt at all. I noticed him limping all at once, so I got him hold of Hoffer, one of the crew that was hit a little bit in the side, and gee, you should have seen old Jerry pick him up and walk off to a dressing station. Some Jerry, believe me.

We would all sit down to smoke, Jerry and all, and he would pop off in German a while and we would start off in English. When we reached the dressing station and the ones of the hospital, the rest of us tried to find our outfit, but no one seemed to know where it was. We came to a Red Cross station and got some hot coffee to drink. All this time old Jerry was with us. We couldn't get rid of him at all, so we found an old barn and thought we had better sleep the rest of the night, as it was about three o'clock in the morning then.

We built a fire and dried out a little and finally went to sleep, Jerry and all. We woke up about eight and Jerry was still sleeping. That was one German that sure did not need any guards. I do not think we could have run him away. We all turned out to find something to eat. We came up to an M. P. station and had breakfast and they said they would take Jerry; and believe me, he sure did hate to leave us. He said that he had had more cigarettes to smoke than he had before. Will write more next time.

With lots of love. As ever

HAPPY LOT OF BOYS WHEN ARMISTICE SIGNED

Maysville Lad in Famous Fifth Division Writes Interestingly Of End of War.

Mr. and Mrs. Jacob Boone of Broadway street, are just in receipt of the following interesting letter from their son, Sergeant Albert S. Boone, member of the famous Fifth Division U. S. A.:

France, Nov. 19, 1918.

Dear Mother: Just a few lines to let you know I am still among the living and am well. I guess you will think I am dead or getting awfully careless with my writing but I have been on the front for about thirty-five days and just got back about three days ago.

And you know when we are on the firing line we don't get a chance to write. Well I don't have to tell you about the armistice, for beyond a doubt you have heard the good news now.

Well it sure sounded good to us. It looks like we will be back in the States before long and then me for home. We had taken three villages and two hills and was getting ready to take another town when the armistice was signed. We were sure a happy lot of boys.

We have begun to do peace time drill now, we are back to close order drill. I have received several letters since I came from the front and I am glad you have begun to get my allotment.

I have two months pay coming to me now. I guess we will get paid pretty soon. That is sure an awful disease raging in the States. I hope every one is well of it by now and I hope they will soon get it checked.

Well it is getting like winter there now, it snowed this morning. Oh yes mother I have begun to long for some of your good hot biscuits and butter, that will be as good as I will want for the first six months.

Well I will close as I haven't any place to write. You needn't worry about me any more as the war is over. Hoping this will find every one well.

I will say good night, answer soon.
SGT. ALBERT S. BOONE.
Co. M, 61st Inf., A. E. F., via N. Y.
P. S.—Note what the 5th Division did. I am in the 5th Division.

The following from a Paris newspaper tells of the location of the Fifth Division when the armistice was signed:

Then consider the troops that had to fight their way across the Meuse and the Canal de l'Est above Brielle, the men of the 5th Division who set up their bridges under shell fire and actually pelted by hand grenades, walked, waded, swam, blundered their way to the heights on the other side, nor stopped there but pushed on to fighting, a none too easy advance of 15 kilometers. If the line held by the First American Army at the hinge of the Western front is to be called the hinge of the hinge, what shall be said of the hinge of the hinge?

When the full story comes to be told it will be shown that when the order to cease firing came on the 11th, the Divisions in line in that region were, from left to right, the 77th, the 2nd, the 89th, the 60th, the 5th, and the 32nd. When the drive started its third and last phase on November first, they were the 75th, the 77th, the 89th, the 2nd, the 89th, the 5th and the 9th.

THE KAISER'S OUT OF IT

There's little cause for apprehension in the cable reports from Europe that a Kaiser Bill is plotting to resume the German throne.

If ever a monarch was down and wholly out of the running, the Kaiser is it.

Kaiser Bill couldn't be elected city scavenger in Berlin today. He ordered his coffin, figuratively speaking, when he carried his treasure trove of sacked gold across the Dutch border the other day.

But the last nail was driven there in when the officers of the new regime reported upon the food hoard discovered in the royal pantry.

For the Kaiser had prepared elaborately for the royal table. There were huge stores of food of every variety. Perishable foodstuffs were kept in cold storage. There were kept in cold storage. There were fish and fowl, game and fresh meats, butter and eggs, delicacies from the four quarters of the globe. Nothing was lacking that would appeal to or tickle the royal palate.

But meantime Germany at large was on the verge of starvation.

In Kaiser Bill's vocabulary there was no such thing as the divine right of sacrifice.

That was for the common herd.

And now the common herd is coming finally into its own. The Bolshevik probably would hold a scalp dance and make the Kaiser run the gauntlet down the Under dog Linden, if they could only get hands upon him.

Don't worry about the Kaiser. He's a dead one.

But his dupes must finally be set aright on the path toward law and order; toward safe and sane government, toward the forgetting of kultur and the embracing of the first principles of humanity.

Starting them aright is part of Uncle Sam's new job.

Paying the cost is part of the mission of the next Liberty Loan.

FREEDOM GIVEN ALIEN FOES
Washington, December 24—Freedom of movement in this country was the Christmas present from President Wilson to German alien enemies. Twenty war-time restrictions on foreigners in this country were abolished by the Justice Department at President Wilson's order.

Those interned, however, will be held until the peace treaty is signed.

About 1300 Germans barred from the nation's capital during the war now will be allowed to return.

Major Biddle, American ace, who has won the Croix de Guerre, said yesterday that it took eighteen battles in the air before he brought down his first German plane.

A new high record was set by the national banks of the country on November 1, the date of the last call. The resources aggregated $19,821,040,000.

Reports from 40 per cent. of the Red Cross chapters in twelve districts show that 13,000,000 persons have enrolled in the Christmas roll-call.

HIDDEN DANGERS

Nature Gives Timely Warnings That No Maysville Citizen Can Afford to Ignore.

DANGER—SIGNAL NO. 1 comes from the kidney secretions. They warn you when the kidneys are weak. Well kidneys excrete a clear, amber fluid. Weak kidneys send out a thin, pale and foamy, or a thick, red, ill-smelling urine, full of sediment and irregular of passage.

DANGER—SIGNAL NO. 2 comes from the back. Back pains, dull and heavy, or sharp and acute, suggest weak kidneys and warn you of the danger of dropsy, gravel and Bright's disease. In that case Doan's Kidney Pills have been endorsed by thousands. Here is a statement of a nearby resident:

Jas. M. Newton, Gum, St. Aberdeen, Ohio, says: "I have used Doan's Kidney Pills off and on for several years and have been greatly benefited. Whenever my back has been weak or when my kidneys have been too frequent in action, I have used a box or so of Doan's Kidney Pills, which I get at Wood & Son's Drug Store. They have always relieved me in a short time."

The above is not an isolated case. Mr. Newton is not one of many in this vicinity who have gratefully endorsed Doan's. If your back aches—if your kidneys bother you, don't simply ask for a kidney remedy—ask distinctly for Doan's Kidney Pills, the same that Mr. Newton had. 50c all stores. WILSON IS CERTAIN
OF A GOOD PEACE

President Tells Troops on Christmas
That They Will Get Fruits of Victory.

American Headquarters in France, December 25—A vast sea of tin hats, wave on wave, swept before President Wilson today as he reviewed 8000 American troops at Langres.

He told the soldiers they would get the kind of peace they fought for; that everybody at home was proud of them, just waiting the chance to acclaim them as conquering heroes on their return.

The 8000 who marched for the president across a muddy field were representative of many divisions.

It was a dramatic moment, one of the most dramatic in history, when the president of the United States on this Christmas Day stood before the American boys who had come so far from home to fight and win and congratulated them on their victory.

The president addressed the troops as "My Fellow Countrymen." He said America had charted the plan for peace and all the nations concerned had accepted that chart, making the process of settlement comparatively simple.

"And," he said, "everybody concerned in the settlement knows it must be a people's peace and that nothing must be done in the settlement of the issues of the war which is not as handsome as the great achievements of the armies of the United States and the allies."

DRUNK AT C. & O. DEPOT

WELCOME EXTENDED VICTORIOUS FLEET AS IT COMES HOME

Great American Armada Arrived in New York Harbor This Morning and Is Received by Great Demonstration.

New York, December 26—America's battle fleet, returning victorious from the war, was welcomed home today by cheering thousands, who watched the impressive spectacle from boats and shore and every point of vantage.

A whirling snowstorm at times blotted out the majestic fighting ships as they moved slowly up the bay, past the Statue of Liberty, where Josephus Daniels, secretary of the navy, reviewed them from the deck of the presidential yacht Mayflower.

Proceeding the fleet came a swarm of small craft and submarine chasers, clearing the way.

The islands in the harbor, the docks and tops of all tall buildings were thronged with spectators, despite a cutting wind.

It was the greatest naval review in American history, and it marked the day when the United States formally assumed its place as the second naval power of the world.

The biggest sea-fighting force the United States ever boasted had its first being today as a single unit—a veritable American armada—as Secretary Daniels reviewed the combined American battle fleets.

The review was the official welcome to the Atlantic fleet, which, for nearly two years, has kept the United States flag flying in European waters.

These long, gray craft steamed up the bay this morning to the music of cheers and sirens, and in the Hudson River joined the home squad, which has remained on this side.

The homecoming fleet comprised Admiral Mayo's flagship, the Pennsylvania and nine other dreadnoughts; The Arizona, Oklahoma, Nevada, Florida, Utah, New York, Texas, Wyoming, and Arkansas.

Each mammoth fighter flew from her masts streamers of ribbon almost 100 feet long.

All the official welcoming craft were anchored around the Mayflower off the Statue of Liberty. They included the Atroz with the assistant secretary of the navy, the press boat Xarifa, and a number of others.

As each of the homecoming ships drew abreast of the Mayflower the secretarial salute of 19 guns roared from the snouts of its batteries.

The toy cannon of the yacht snapped out an acknowledgement of the Pennsylvania's greeting, 17 guns in honor of Admiral Mayo.

The Atlantic Fleet, with sightseeing and freight raft keeping a respectful distance, steamed majestically into its anchorage in the Hudson between 55th and 120th streets, forming, in conjunction with the home fleet, a double line more than six miles long.

The dreadnoughts and battleships were moored along the New York side of the river; the destroyers, auxiliary and supply ships swung at anchor off the New Jersey shore.

PREACHES AT EWING

Rev. W. H. Morris will preach Sunday both morning and evening at the Ewing M. E. Church. Because of the "flu" ban no services have been held in this church since the new pastor arrived on the field. He should be met by a large audience.

Cashier H. C. Sharp, of the State National Bank, returned this morning from Martinsville, Ind., where he has been for some time for his health. His many friends will be glad to know that he is considerably improved in health.

KENTUCKIANS ARE URGED TO CONTINUE SAVING OF FOOD

Food Administrator Sackett Makes Christmas Day Statement to Citizens of Our State.

Louisville, Ky., December 25—The Kentucky Division of the United States Food Administration at this Christmas season wishes to acknowledge the splendid spirit of helpfulness and co-operation displayed by the people of Kentucky in responding as fully and so generously to the suggestions that have been made to them during the past year and a half.

The problem of feeding the soldiers and the Allies during the period of the war was the problem of all our people and on them rested the responsibility of providing that great service of the war.

Every effort made by the Food Administration tending to rolling up the surplus of grains and food so badly needed and which could come from no other source, met the ready response of Kentuckians in every section of the State.

The support given to the patriotic men who served as County Food Administrators and gave their time and strength that America might be victorious, is a renewed evidence of the power of a great Democracy.

At this moment when peace again reigns on earth and the spirit of good will to men prevails the atmosphere, the Food Administration is as rapidly as possible discontinuing each of the regulations that had to govern our food resources during the period of strife, and is returning business to its normal competitive channels.

In so doing, however, it seems proper to call to the attention of our people the obligations which the great victory leaves with us.

The changed conditions open to our view many lands and peoples who for more than four years have been crushed and tyrannized by the German nation. Their supplies have been stolen and their lands laid waste. In these ravaged lands famine conditions prevail and millions of people face starvation. If they were in our midst with their pathetic personal appeal there would be no need to suggest to anyone in Kentucky the call of humanity to eliminate our waste that they might be fed.

Our Chief, Mr. Hoover, who has so unselfishly and ably led the army of saving in America is now in Europe arranging for the transport, financing and distribution of the relief needed. And at this Christmas time he sends us word that it is essential that our people carry on voluntarily the food saving and economy of use of essential food to provide the surplus that will show that the United States proposes to carry its share of this impending famine in other countries.

He will not call for more economy than is necessary but he asks it now on a voluntary basis and says to us that the need is greater even than was thought. Let us try to see a personal appeal from these stricken nations through his eyes and gladly join him in the great effort he is making. By active work in our homes many lives may be saved that without an earnest effort in America must be lost before the time when a new planting and a new harvest brings to them the realization of life, happiness and security. America's burden as to food will become more specific as the problems of transport and needs are solved, but every American home can even now feel the duty of sharing with those in need, and every saving now made will help to feed a family on the other side.

FRED M. SACKETT,
Federal Food Administrator for Kentucky.

CURT JETT WEDS OLD SWEET-HEART

Curt Jett was married Christmas Eve in Lexington to Mrs. Dora Bullock Atkins, of Fayette county. Jett was released December 11 from the Frankfort penitentiary, having been sentenced fifteen years ago for the killing of James Cockrell, deputy sheriff, and Judge James B. Marcum.

Jett professed religion before his release, and has entered the ministry. He was paroled by Gov. Stanley after having served fifteen years of his life sentence.

Shortly after Jett's release, Mrs. J. B. Patrick, of Lexington, issued a statement saying that she bore no malice in her heart toward Jett for the slaying of her brother, Judge Marcum, if Jett had really become a child of God.

Maysville streets looked deserted this morning and things were as quiet as Sunday. It will probably take several days to get over the big Christmas holiday.

Miss Minnie Sporenberg left this afternoon for Ironton, Ohio, to spend the week-end with relatives.

ALUMNI DEFEATS THE HIGH SCHOOL SQUAD

Former Students of M. H. S. Now Playing on College Teams Defeat
Locals by Score of 40 to 8.

The Maysville High School basketball five was defeated last night at the local gymnasium by a score of 40 to 8 by a team made up of former M. H. S. stars who are now making good on their states.

Various college teams in this and other parts of the state were playing against old and well seasoned players, the High School squad did some good playing although they were defeated by a large score and the score would not show it.

Maysville is proud of the record her High School graduates are making in colleges this year. The local High School has more former students out for the varsity team at the Kentucky University this year than any other High School in the state which speaks well for our athletics.

INJUNCTION IS OBTAINED AGAINST FRANKFORT MOVIE

Frankfort, Ky., December 25—Dr. J. G. South, President of the State Board of Health, today obtained an injunction against D. B. Smith, who conducts the Capitol Moving Picture Theater, restraining him from permitting patrons of the theater to enter the building as long as the influenza ban prevails against such amusement in this city.

Attorney-General Charles Morris represented Dr. South.

The complaint says that the congregation of people in the theater endangers the health of the people of the community and tends to spread influenza.
